

I have to ask whether the control of the FCC is by corporation or by the public. If Viacom threatens to pull all of its HDTV signals, then let them do it and sue the heck out of them. Really, to do this would just seem like giving into a large corporation which is even more reason for reform of corporate structures that were emported into the USA from a monarchy ruled by an oligarcy.